SHAVINGS FROM THE BOARD

The new furnaces and air conditioners / heat pumps have been installed. That should cure a recurring headache for the Trustees. Also, no more coming to worship and finding it warm and stuffy in the sanctuary!

Congratulations to this year's graduates – Sam, Le, Matt, Leesa, and Hope. Dot and I did not make it to the celebration after church but I understand that I did not communicate clearly enough and a couple of the names were left off the cake. For that I apologize. All five have done very well.

RUSS' RAMBLINGS – In God's own time

Well, the house finally sold. I sort of expected that He had something specific in mind and ours would sell when the right house was available for us at the right price. We received an offer for our house with exactly three weeks to get moved out. A week later, we found a house much closer to where Dot works. After the offer was accepted, we learned that the sellers were involved in a special camp for foster children. The one-week camp is held annually at Covenant Cedars!

We will do quite a bit of work to make this house "ours". So far we have replaced the dishwasher and microwave. As time goes on we will hang curtains, replace some of the floor coverings, and do some painting. My primary emphasis so far has been to get things moved from storage so we could quit paying that rental. There is one partial load left. Then I will need to start clearing things out of the garage so we can get Dot's car in.
